Photographer and author Boyd Norton has been chosen as the 2015 recipient of the Sierra Club's prestigious Ansel Adams award for his use of "superlative photography" for conservation causes over a lifetime. His work in protecting wildlife and wilderness has spanned the globe.

Norton is the photographer and author of 16 books, ranging in topics from African elephants to mountain gorillas, and from Siberia's Lake Baikal to the Serengeti ecosystem.

His recent award-winning book, SERENGETI: THE ETERNAL BEGINNING, won high praise from Jane Goodall and Richard Engel of NBC News, among many others.

His next book, CONSERVATION PHOTOGRAPHY: THE ART OF SAVING OUR PLANET ONE PHOTOGRAPH AT A TIME, is due for publication in early 2016. He is at work on three more books.

Throughout his nearly 50 years of photography and writing and environmental activism he has played a key role in the establishment of several wilderness areas in the Rocky Mountains, new national parks in Alaska, and in the designation of Siberia's Lake Baikal as a World Heritage Site.
